Targeting Channels

Self Enrichers

Self enrichers are individuals who enjoy learning and aspire to succeed. They tend to get excited when something is new or different, and are rooted in their values. Also, they enjoy supporting others whenever they can.

Arab Expats with an income between AED 5,000 to AED 10,000, and residents of Abu Dhabi and Dubai are strongly represented in this group.

Aside from digital media, Self Enrichers can also be targeted through traditional media such as TV, newspapers and radio.

Experience Seekers

Experience seekers value entertainment as well as culture & learning. They like to help others whenever they can. They are advocates of the environment and tend to support this cause when possible.

This segment over indexes on Emiratis & Westerners, Abu Dhabi residents, and individuals with income exceeding AED 10,000/month.

They can be reached through advertising on TV in the morning and evening times, the radio from 10 am - 1pm, YouTube, and other digital and social media channels.

Fun Seekers

Fun seekers enjoy every moment and make the most of it. They're open to exploring the 'other', enjoy learning about the world and technology. They are comfortable communicating with brands via WhatsApp and Facebook.

This segment over indexes on Dubai residents from all ethnicities except low income Asians.

Fun Seekers can be reached through digital and social media. They show the highest use of Video on Demand, and are most likely to use Apps for events – mainly for navigation.

Passives

Passives tend to be disengaged and demonstrate a lower interest in culture and entertainment. They are economical and careful in how they spend their money, but aspire to own material possessions.

This segment consists of two sub-groups, Asian Expats earning a monthly income less than AED 5,000, and residents earning above AED 5000 and residing outside Dubai.

Passives can be reached primarily via advertising on TV and in Print, and under-index on online media channels compared to others.

| As ambitious learners who focus on self-growth, Self Enrichers are Expo’s most promising segment from a visitation perspective. The segment reacts most positively to the Expo proposition with a 12% increase in intended visitation*. This segment is projected to contribute the highest number of visits to the Expo 2020, due to their segment size. As enthusiastic learners, they are projected to drive more season pass visits than any other segment. Expo should be positioned as a venue that offers them a chance to learn something new and invaluable with every visit. | As learning and entertainment enthusiasts, Experience Seekers show good visitation potential. They are excited by the Expo proposition*, have the highest intent to visit, and the highest average number of visits per household. This segment is the highest adopters of season passes. Immersive experience that support a cause will appeal to them, as well as unique experiences at Expo 2020 will trigger initial and repeat visits. Given their attitudes and dispositions, this group shows the highest potential to engage with Expo 2020 activations | Fun seekers have a fair potential to visit: their intent to visit is strong, but wasn’t further developed following their exposure to the Expo proposition* as they are naturally more content driven. This segment is projected to contribute the second highest number of visits, with the biggest volume of their visits coming from season passes. Fun seekers value entertainment and like to make the most of every moment. Expo 2020 Dubai should be positioned to them as fun, social and cultural exchange. | While this segment is made up of mostly disengaged individuals, and show relatively lower intent to visit Expo, Passives cannot be overlooked given their size and the associated number of visits they will ultimately contribute. While Passives are the least likely to be brand ambassadors they must be kept informed of Expo content and programming to help them determine when to visit. |

3 in 4 international visitors are expected to come from emerging markets.

International Adult Leisure Visitors:

International Visitors, by Segment

International Adult Leisure Visitors:

General Attitudes

Self Enrichers

Self Enrichers are curious and have a great desire for learning and experimenting, experiencing different and new things when they travel. They are of a diverse nature as they are excited to try different types of food, visit museums and opera houses, as well as explore the country-side and go on wildlife safaris.

Experience Seekers

Experience Seekers like to take in 360 degree experience when travelling. They are interested in learning and experiencing foreign cultures through the food, landmarks and museums, as well as having fun at theme parks, water parks and attending different events. They also like to be in the wild, among the mountains. They also like to explore the city through public transportation.

Fun Seekers

Fun Seekers crave excitement and adventure. Long road trips and lodging in bungalows and resorts are their holiday essentials. They enjoy attending events and concerts, as well as playing sports and recreational activities. They seek out mountains, the desert and wildlife and like spending time in water parks.

Passives

Passive travelers mostly play it safe and staying in their comfort zone while travelling. They tend to be less adventurous, and stick to know what they know best thus their travel itinerary would mostly consist of exploring the well known museums or landmarks of the city. They also like relaxing on the beach and often look for cheap holiday options.

Travel Motivations

Response to Expo 2020 Proposition

Self Enrichers

Driven by experiences and their thirst for learning, Self Enrichers travel to destinations that offer great cultural attractions, great shopping experiences, and being in nature (experiencing beautiful scenery or a great beach).

Self Enrichers respond favourably to Expo’s proposition, and are specifically attracted to the possibility of learning about new cultures, learning about new opportunities, and being exposed to innovative ideas.

Experience Seekers

Wanting to maximize the utilization of their time, Experience Seekers seek travel experiences that offer it all: world class beaches, great cultural attractions, and beautiful landscapes and scenery.

Experience Seekers find several aspects of the Expo proposition appealing; indicating that learning about new cultures and opportunities, as well as entertainment, innovation and entry pass affordability to be their top motivators.

Fun Seekers

As leisure and entertainment travelers, Fun Seekers prioritize popular destinations that offer world class beaches and offer beautiful landscapes and natural scenery.

Fun Seekers tend to be attracted to the entertainment that Expo has to offer, but are also intrigued by the innovation and new opportunities that might be unveiled at the event.

Passives

Preferring to stay in their comfort zone, Passive travelers predominantly choose popular destinations. Factors such as beaches, shopping experiences and beautiful scenery are also cited, but as secondary to destination popularity.

Passives provide a reserved response to Expo’s proposition. Across source markets affordable entry prices appears as a consistent motivator, attached to either entertainment and leisure. This emphasizes the importance of facilitating an easily accessible Expo 2020 experience to this group.
